At ISH 2017 , TROX presented under the theme of 'The TROX Principle' once again a range of innovative and optimised systems, units and components.

Networked worlds – networked Systems

Increasing urbanisation is accompanied by a need to constantly adapt buildings to changing use. This is why TROX has developed integrated ventilation and air conditioning systems which respond to changing requirements in real time. They ensure the provision of the required air quality on demand as well as maximum building safety, and then independent of the building type or usage.

You will find detailed information of all innovations 2017 in our news brochure .
